I'LL SEE THE MAYOR, SAID SHE,

AND SHE DID, DESPITE THE CITY HALL'S OFFICIAL FORCE.

Besieged Him in His Office, Chased His to Lunch, Braved Slammed Elevator Doors and Finally Landed Him-Had a Complaint Against City Marshals.

Mayor Low was detained so long yesterday by hearings on bills which have come down from Albany that he had to renege on his announcement that he would hold a public reception daily between noon and o'clock. There were plenty of callers at the City Hall. One of them, a woman, said she'd see the Mayor anyhow. She

"I want to see the Mayor and I want to see him quickly," she said to Policeman "Pete" Kuntz when she reached the Hall

The policeman, who was guarding the Mayor's office, began the conventional fable about the Mayor being too busy to see any one. Then the fun began. Kuntz stood it for about ten seconds and capitu-

"Wait a moment and I'll fetch the Mayor's secretary," said he. Mr. Reynolds listened courteously to the woman. Then he was heard to say: Please put that in writing and send it to the Mayor and it will be attended to at once."

"Put it in writing," responded the woman scornfully. "Put it in writing, you tell me, and you drawing a big salary from the city! Any jackass could tell me that. Why, things are as bad here as they are in London Over there if you want to see the King you have first to see secretaries, clerks, pages and flunkies, and you're no better over here, although you call this a free country. I guess I'll sit here until I see the Mayor, if I have to wait here all day and all night."

Thereupon she sat. The Mayor was told about the incident, but he balked at seeing the woman and he wanted his lunch. With Kuntz and "Mattie" Dobbins, his confidential clerk, a plan of escape was confidential clerk, a plan of escape was evolved.

While the two stood in front of the woman and engaged her in conversation, the Mayor walked quickly from his office and made for the entrance to the City Hall. But the scheme didn't work. The woman caught sight of the retreating figure and went after the Mayor. She would have caught him, but Policeman Pete rushed in front of her and barred her way for a moment or two at the door. When at last she escaped from Kuntz, she spied the Mayor crossing Broadway to the PostalTelegraph Building, in which is the Hardware Club, where he lunches. Rushing after him she caught up with him just as he was entering the elevator, but only in time, in response from a gesture from the Mayor, to have the door closed in her face.

Then she returned to the City Hall and announced that she would wait until she saw the Mayor. The Mayor sent over a message that he would see her.

Meantime as the woman sat in the anteroom photographers sent for by reporters employed by two afternoon newspapers tried to take snapshots of her. She didn't waste time in expostulation. She went for the photographers with a vigor that made them quit at once. One of them she hit on the face with her satchel. The other cleared on the run. To reporters she refused to talk.

"I pay taxes on over $50,000 worth of property," she said, "and it has come to a pretty pass if I cannot see the Mayor without all this fuses and without having to humiliate myself by pursuing him."

The Mayor also declined to talk about the purpose of the woman's visit to him. It was learned, however, that she was a Mrs. Crawford and that she lives in West Ninsty-third street. She told the Mayor withous the was related to Justice Truax and came to him upon the Justice's advice. She complained of the actions of two city marshals who tried to force an entry into her house to satisfy a judgment of $33 by levying on her furniture.

AN APPEAL FOR TUSKEGEE. The Pressing Needs of the Institution Which

From the starting of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, at Tuskegee, Ala., to the present time, the people of New York and vicinity have taken deep interest in the work and results of the school. The school is planted in the black belt of the South and has the good will of both races. The growth of the institution, both in size and usefulness, in connection with the Hampton Institute the Tuskegee school has led the way in com-bining industrial training with academic. moral and religious education in the develop-ment of the negro race. The Tuskegee school is constantly serving as an object lesson for the whole South, and many smaller schools have grown out of it.

The demand from Southern white people for men and women trained at Tuskegee is greater than the supply, and the denand for teachers and workers on the part of the negro race is unlimited. In addition, thousands of adults are reached and helped through the medium of the Tuskegee negro conference with its various local branches. Just now the school has two imperative needs. First $50,000, money for the payment of expenses for the balance of the current year, and for the increase in stock in trade and necessary equipment, funds for which have not been provided. This amount is needed before June 1 to enable the school to end the year free of debt. Second, an increase in the endowment fund. The endowment fund now in hand amounts to $410.000, but to assure the future of the institution and to save much of the time and strength of the principal now spent in collecting money and to enable him to devote more of his time to helping the whole South in a larger way the endowment fund should be increased by at least $600,000.

The school is under the direction, as an educational and business enterprise, of an efficient corps of carefully trained educators and managers and of a board of trustees who supervise its affairs. Aside from its endowment it has property, in lands, buildings and equipment, of the value of $40,000. The New York trustees who have the care and custody of the endowment fund and are associated with the general management of the school are William H. Baldwin, Jr. 128 Broadway; J. G. Phelps Stokes, 100 William street; George Foster Pesbody, 27 Pine street, and Robert C. Ogden, 750 Broadway.

SLAP AT SECULAR SCHOOLS

Where Fashion Reigns, but from Which God Seems to Have Turned His Pace." The pupils and alumns of the Sacred Heart Convent gave a reception yester-day afternoon in honor of Archbishop Far-ley and for the first time officially greeted him as Archbishop of New York. At the same time the new building at the north of the convent was opened.

The entire first floor of the new building is to be used as an assembly hall, and this was the scene of the reception. The walls were banked with giant palms and bundreds of potted lilies. The scene at Lourdes, where the Archbishop learned of the death of his predecessor, was reproduced. Four of the smallest girls in the school, in quaint garb, discussed education.

In the afternoon a dinner was given for the Archbishop and Cathedral priests by the sisters and alumnæ. Following this was the reception. The Archbishop greeted about 600 of the pupils and alumnæ of the convent and made an address to them, congratulating them on the progress the institution had made in the last ten years. To the alumnæ the Archbishop said:

I would askthe contention of the Christian years. To the alumnæ the Archbishop said:

I would askthe cooperation of the Christian women who claim this institution for their alma mater in the furthering of Catholic education and Catholic schools. I would urge the discouragement of those schools where religion cannot be taught, those schools where fashion reigns, but from which God seems to have turned His face.

I would ask you Christian Catholic women, be ded together as you are, to exert your every influence—and there is no greater influence in the world than that of good women—to crush out the growing evils of the day, to put forth your efforts to lessen the growth of divorce, to give to the world an example of purity, of strength of faith. In this you can well serve your God, your country and your alma mater.

After the reception a meeting of the alumnæ was held and the se officers were elected: Miss Marie O'Donohue, president; Miss Rose Sadler, vice-president: Miss Agnes Schickel, treasurer, and Miss Josephine McGinnis, secretary.

Gang of Thugs Operates. While patrolling his post along the foot of the Palisades early yesterday morning saw a man sinking in the mud. He summoned aid from the station house, and the moned aid from the station house, and the man was rescued by means of an improvised bridge.

He was cut on the head in two places and his right ear was hanging by a thin shred of skin. He was unconscious when the station house was reached, and was sent to St. Mary's Hospital. He revived yesterday afternoon, but the police were unable to learn anything further than that his name was Michael Roach. It was said at the hospital last night that his condition was precarious.

The police believe that the man was attacked and thrown into the swamp, as the place shows evidences of a struggle. The swamp is the same in which Judge of Elections John Durham lost his life five months ago. A gang of hoodlums infests the neighborhood, and a half dozen persons have been waylaid and thrown into the quagmire within a year.

CANTOR SAVES ON PAVING.

Borough President Cantor in his annual report to the Mayor points out that in 1902 nearly thirty miles of pavement were laid at a cost of $1,198,000 while in 1901 eighteen miles were laid at a cost of $1,319,000. The report shows further that the average price paid for sheet asphalt per square yard in 1902 was $1.10 as against $2.44 in 1901. The average price paid for asphalt block in 1902 was $1.80; in 1901, $2.58. The average price was $1.80; in 1901, $2.58. The average price of maintenance and repairs of asphalt pavement, wearing surface, in 1902 was 89 cents and in 1901 $2.35; for standard pavement in 1902 $1.49 and in 1901 $2.60. In 1902 451,762 feet of sewers were cleaned at a cost of $58,899.67, as compared with 349,552 feet cleaned in 1901 at a cost of $64,667.12.

Mr. Cantor suggests the depression of the street railway tracks at the intersection of Thirty-fourth street. Broadway and Sixth avenue, so as to leave the surface clear for vehicular traffic. The advisability of depressing the car tracks in Forty-second street at Fifth avenue is also being considered.

MOVING SIDEWALK SUBWAY

RAPID TRANSIT COMMISSION TO CONSIDER IT.

Committee Named to Take Up the Plan to Connect the Williamsburg Bridge With Bowling Green—Demand for an Express Station at the Park Circle.

The Rapid Transit Commission decided yesterday to give serious consideration to the proposition submitted to it two weeks ago to connect the new Williamsburg Bridge with Bowling Green by means of moving platform.

When the scheme was first presented to the board the members gave little heed to it because they understood that the syndicate controlling the patent wanted the city to pay the cost of building the subway. The syndicate offered an alternative proposal. They agreed to carry passengers for one cent if the city would build the tunnel, but offered to build the tunnel themselves on the understanding that a two-cent fare would be charged.

Max Schmidt, on behalf of the syndicate, said that the men he represented would put up any amount of cash decided upon for the fulfilment of their contract.

Cornelius Vanderbilt and Stuyvesant Fish are members of the syndicate and it is understood that several other wealthy men are back of it. Therefore when Mr. Schmidt stated that the company would pay for the building of the subway, thereby providing the people of Williamsburg direct transportation to the Battery over the bridge and by subway and making connections with the new bridges without a cent of cost to the city, Comptroller Grout moved the appointment of a committee to consider the proposal. The motion was adopted and Messrs. Orr, Starin and Grout were named as the committee.

Chief Engineer Parsons has made plans for the building of a subway railroad to tap the new bridges. Whether or not the moving platform would knock out his plan is a matter of doubt.

A large delegation of property owners from the upper West Side attended the meeting of the commission to urge the necessity of building an express station at the Fifty-ninth street circle. Chief Engineer Parsons, who is opposed to the suggestion, asserts that it would delay the opening of the tunnel for at least a couple of years.

The speakers at the meeting said that they had opinions from several engineers that the express station could be constructed within eight months, and that therefore there would be no appreciable delay in the opening of the railroad for operation. It was decided to adjourn the hearing until these engineers and Mr. Parsons could discuss their views.

Mr. Parsons announced that the work of filling in the excavations below Forty-second street was progressing rapidly. The restoration of Park row opposite the City Hall Park, he said, would be begun next Monday and that nearly the whole length of Elm street would be filled in by the time the contract for its repaving could be let. Cornelius Vanderbilt and Stuyvesant Fish are members of the syndicate and IDLE STREET CAR TRACKS. Amsterdam Avenue Case Awaits Justice Amend's Decision.

Supreme Court Justice Amend reserved decision yesterday on the suit of the Forty-second Street, Manhattanville and St. Nicholas Avenue Railway to restrain Borough President Cantor and the city from removing the company's tracks on that para of Amsterdam avenue where four tracks were laid before the Third Avenue road was leased by the Metropolitan company.

REPUBLICAN EDITORS RESOLVE

For High Taxes on Rum and Red The up-State Republican editors, whose subscribers produce the cheese which the saloonkeepers talk of boycotting, expressed their delight yesterday at the Fifth Avenue Hotel at the tax measures passed by the Legislature and the Governor, slapping

thus at the saloon:

* * And indorse the measures which have finally put an end to direct taxes on property for State purposes and have placed a larger portion of the burden on that a larger portion of the burden on that business which, more than any other, has increased the cost of protecting the innocent and caring for the dependent."

Nineteen of the editors thought the Republican Editorial Association of the State of New York ought to record its views on the race question. Nine others thought it would be just as well to leave the question alone. President Thomas P. Peters discussed it at length in his annual address, saying:

cussed it at length in his annual address, saying:

"If the present movement goes unrebuked the future of the black man in the South is blacker than his own face." Mr. Peters said that ex-President Cleveland's speech on Tuesday night was a bid for the support of the South in the next Democratic National Convention. Mr. Peters, who is an editor of the Brooklyn Times, said.

And what does he advocate? Education editor of the Brooklyn Times, said:

And what does he advocate? Education for the negro is his panacea. He fears the "perilous flood of indiscriminate, unIntelligent and blighting negro suffrage" Well, do Theodore Roosevelt and the Republican party advocate anything else? Has Theodore Roosevelt elevated to public office the ignorant and the thriftless negro of the South? No, he has dined with a negro, the superior of Cleveland in intellect; he has appointed only such to office as are Mr. Cleveland's equals. Education is the relief, but the South would make two classes of men in their States. They would make the white voters and the blacks non-voters, and they would do it and are so managing it that the black can never break through and become a voter.

The nineteen editors had their way, and black can never break through and become a voter.

The nineteen editors had their way, and this declaration was adopted:

Resolved, That while the members recognize the peculiar social and domestic conditions which make the question of negro suffrage in the South so difficult of solution, we also recognize the fact that nothing has ever justified or ever can justify an attempt to interfere with, evade, annul or override the mandate of the Constitution of the United States. If the negro is disqualified for the suffrage in any State of the South or if the white man is disqualified in any State of the North by the deliberate action of the Legislature, honesty and fairness require that the voters thus disqualified be eliminated in the enumeration of the population as a basis for the representation of that State in Congress and in the Electoral College.

We submit either that the Constitution be enforced in every part of the land or that it be amended so as to preserve the equities of its intent and purpose in all the States without discrimination on account of local conditions, social traditions, or racial feeling.

We ask the Republican press of the North to give prompt consideration to this great mational question which bids fair to become of paramount importance and which must be met with the same patience and courage which have characterized the leadership in the Republican party in every great emergency in our nation's history.

There were eighty-four to hand in cards, the starting and scoring being managed in fine style by the committee, Messrs. Miley, James and the committee, Messrs. Miley, James and Potts. Travis won the gold medal with 184, leading Brokaw by four and Douglas by five strokes. The high score to qualify was 181. An incident was that Travis played with Byers, the open champion of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, who put him out in the amateur championship. Byers, who finished in 178, was off his game through lack of practice, but played many of the holes ob rilliantly that he may do better work at so brilliantly that he may do better work at match play

Travis did not use the aluminium putter through the green. He putted very well and held Byers safe on the tee shots. Brokaw showed an improvement and Douglas's game was marked by the usual succession of dazzling plays and mediocre ones to can-

DIEFENDERFER WINS BIG SHOOT. Competitors in Grand American Handless Made Good Scores. KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 16.—The Grand American Handicap at inanimate targets, the big event of the Interstate Association, was shot to-day under perfect weather conditions. big event of the Interstate Association, was shot to-day under perfect weather conditions.

M. Diefenderfer, Wood River, Neb., was the winner with a score of 94 out of 100 targets. He had a handicap of sixteen yards. M. E. Hensler, Battle Creek, Mich., seventeen yards handicap, broke 93, and L. J. Squier, Wilmington, Del., seventeen yards, and C. E. Adams, Rockwell City, Ia., eighteen yards, tied with 92. Eight others, all with a handicap of nineteen yards or under, shot 91.

The 178 men engaged in to-day's shoot made surprisingly good scores. H. C. Hirschy, a twenty-two-yard man, and Fred Gilbert and W. R. Crosby, each handicapped twenty-three yards, probably the best trapshooters in the world, did good work.

In shooting off the tie of the preliminary handicap of yesterday Max Hensler, the winner, broke 23 targets and D. F. Timberlake, Seneca, Kan., 21. To-morrow the consolation handicap will be shot. Winners of money in the grand American Handicap will have one yard added to their targets and the non-winners of money in to-day's event will go in one yard.

The preliminary handicap of one hundred birds, the principal event yesterday, was stopped by darkness. One hundred and fifty of the 170 entries shot, and 29 of them broke 84 or more of the 100 targets. D. T. Timberlake of Seneca, Kan.; C. M. E. Hensler of Battle Creek, Mich., seventeen-yard men in the handicap, each broke 91 targets. H. W. Davis of Richmond, Mo. C. M. Powers of Decatur, Ill., and W. A. Matteson of Abilene, Kan., followed with a score of 90. W. R. Crosby of O'Fallon, Ill., who made the best score on Tuesday, broke, 87 birds, and Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Ia., a strong favorite, scored 84.

NOVEL RULING ON BOXING. $100 Each for Mutual Assault.

Boston, April 16.-Judge Emmons, in the East Boston Court this morning, rendered his decision in the case of George Gardner his decision in the case of George Gardner and Peter Maher, the heavyweight boxers, who were charged with mutual assault and battery. He found the defendants guilty, and imposed a fine of $100. Gardner appealed, but Maher did not appear in court.

Jesse Cove was counsel for the boxers. His contention was that the participants in a sport or pastime assumed all things incidental to the sforesaid participation. Should the decision of Judge Emmons be upheld by the higher courts, boxing bouts by organized clubs will receive a knock-out blow. The case in point grew out of an exhibition held by the Maverick A. C. in Lyceum Hall, April 16, and the ruling applies with equal force to every club where boxing bouts are held.
